NOVEL TOOTHBRUSH.

ply Water.

A clever device has been patented in the shape of a toothbrush so constructed as to furnish water needed for cleaning the molars, and then thoroughly washing out the brush itself. This is all accomplished

THE UNIQUE TOOTHBRUSH

by means of a rubber bulb arranged at the end of the brush's handle and forming a receptacle for the water. The above cut clearly iliustrates the brush with bulb attachment, and its method of operation is easily understood. The bulb is held in the palm of the hand, and as the brush is drawn back and forth over the teeth pressure is applied, forcing the water through a little channel in the handle to the bristles, where it is poured on to the When the process of cleaning the teeth has been completed the water remaining in the bulb is forced out, and in its passage cleanses the bristles. 'BATTLING" NELSON KNOCKS OUT CANOLE
